III. NEW BUSINESS

- A. 6:00 pm. Work Session to work on proposed revisions to Application for an Appeal of an Administrative Decision.

There were several other “Applications of Administrative Decision” forms that were reviewed by the ZBA, including applications from the towns of Exeter and Belmont, New Hampshire. The ZBA members discussed the different forms and reviewed the differences between the forms. The ZBA looked over the changes to the proposed form as proposed by Chair Beaudin and Administrator Bont.

McTeague questioned if the ZBA had become more onerous with this new form.

Bont explained that the changes were more of a descriptive nature in that the description of an abutter was defined and written authorizations were explained. The new form is more informational for the applicant.

Chair Beaudin said that now the applicant cannot come back and say “we didn’t know that” because it will be clearly written out in the directions for the appeal. Chair Beaudin went on to explain that the appeal process will be less burdensome on the Planning Administrator to push back and have the applicant do more of the work.

McTeague agreed and understood.

Chair Beaudin said that Bont would still have the initial review over the application before the applicant needs to make all the copies for the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Ham questioned the definition of “abutter” listed on the application. Ham felt it was too opened with the current description.

Bont stated it was a statutory thing. Bont explained that usually abutters were only lots that touched or were directly across a street or stream. Bont stated with a condominium it was a bit more complicated.

Beaudin said that if you read further on it explains abutter and then also the different possibilities of each.

Bont stated that if a home owners association no longer exists it is recommended you notify all previous members of the association. Bont explained that in a condominium association that has quarter interest, each partial owner would need to be notified but that other times you can notify only the association administrator and they are responsible to notify all the owners in the association. The rules are different with each association.

There was a brief discussion about different associations and how some areas like Forest Ridge have up to 7 different associations. Inn Seasons has six separate owners associations. It was discussed that it is sometimes difficult to notify all abutters in an association.

Beaudin asked for a review of the form and if there were any changes requested by ZBA members. Once an applicant hands in the initial copy they will have to make all the copies of the associated paperwork for the ZBA members.
